Additional Information/New Business/Discussion	Chairperson	Tim Hamilton wanted to know about the ixl grading system. is it helping students to be successful or causing undue stress? can the scoring or feedback be adjusted? It seems students are just trying to get the right amount of points instead of learning the content. Glover - It is a great tool and if used with notes can be helpful. and has the information needed to be successful on the standard tests. Teachers can work with the students and check in after a certain amount of time to make sure the content is being absorbed and not just submitted to earn points.
