Does applying U	ndeclared have any bearing on an applicant's chances of admission?
Berkeley	Applying Undeclared in the College of Letters and Science does not affect admission and offers an opportunity for students to explore before declaring a major. Students interested in a high-demand major in the College of Letters and Science , the College of Engineering or the Haas School of Business should select those majors as their first choice on the application.
Davis	Applying Undeclared or Undeclared/Exploratory does not affect admission and offers an opportunity for students to explore before declaring a major.
Irvine	Applying Undeclared does not negatively affect admission and offers an opportunity for students to explore before declaring a major.
Los Angeles	Applying Undeclared in the College of Letters and Science does not affect admission and offers an opportunity for students t explore before declaring a major. However, selecting Undeclared-Engineering does impact admission due to space limitation
Merced	Applying Undeclared does not affect admission and offers an opportunity for students to explore before declaring a major.
Riverside	Applying Undeclared does not affect admission and offers an opportunity for students to explore before declaring a major. Note: Undeclared is not an option for the Bourns College of Engineering, School of Business, School of Education and School of Public Policy.
San Diego	Applying Undeclared does not affect admission and offers an opportunity for students to explore before declaring a major. However, applicants interested in highly selective majors are advised to apply directly to the major.
Santa Barbara	Applying Undeclared does not affect admission and offers an opportunity for students to explore before declaring a major. Applying Undeclared is an option only in the College of Letters and Science . Undeclared is not an option in the College of Creative Studies or the College of Engineering . Students intending on majors in those colleges should apply directly to the preferred major as movement between colleges later may not be allowed.
Santa Cruz	Applying Undeclared/Undecided does not affect admission and offers an opportunity for students to explore before declaring a major. However, the Computer Science majors (B.A. and B.S.) are selective. Students interested in Computer Science must apply to the major.
For which progra	ms is the intended major a factor in admission?

Which colleges/so	hools or majors are most selective for first-year applicants?
Berkeley	Majors in the colleges of Chemistry ; Computing, Data Science, and Society ; and Engineering , as well as the Haas School of Business , are the most selective. Additionally, the College of Letters and Science has several high-demand, or capped, majors that have limited capacity. For more information, visit admissions.berkeley.edu/majors .
Davis	The following majors are the most selective: Business, Design, Pre-Landscape Architecture, Psychology and most majors in the College of Engineering.
Irvine	Business Administration, Nursing Science, all majors in the Donald Bren School of Information and Computer Science and the Henry Samueli School of Engineering, and the following majors in the School of Social Sciences: Business Economics, Cognitive Sciences, Economics, Psychology and Quantitative Economics
Los Angeles	Majors in our professional schools are most selective. See detailed information about the admission process for first-year applicants .
Merced	Majors in the School of Natural Sciences and the School of Engineering are the most selective. Students are encouraged to complete precalculus or higher before applying.
Riverside	Majors in the Bourns College of Engineering and the College of Natural and Agricultural Sciences
San Diego	Selective majors include Bioengineering, Computer Science, Computer Engineering, Data Science, Electrical and Computer Engineering, Mechanical and Aerospace Engineering, and Public Health. High-interest majors are also very popular but are not yet considered "selective." High-interest majors may include Biological Sciences, Cognitive Science, Business Economics, Economics, Mathematics and Psychology and are subject to change each year. Students applying to a selective or high-interest major should consider listing an alternate major on the UC application. For more information, please visit the selective majors website.
Santa Barbara	The College of Engineering is generally the most selective. The College of Creative Studies requires faculty review and can be highly selective.
	The Computer Science majors (B.A. and B.S.) may be more selective than other majors.

FIRST-YEAR SELECTION

What method of comprehensive review does your campus utilize? *
Berkeley	Holistic review incorporating the faculty-approved comprehensive review factors with no fixed weight on any factor. Every achievement, academic or nonacademic, is considered within the context of opportunities available to the applicant.
Davis	Holistic review incorporating the faculty-approved comprehensive review factors with no fixed weight on any factor. Every achievement, academic or nonacademic, is considered within the context of opportunities available to the applicant.
Irvine	Holistic review incorporating the faculty-approved comprehensive review factors with no fixed weight on any factor. Every achievement, academic or nonacademic, is considered within the context of opportunities available to the applicant.
Los Angeles	Holistic review incorporating the faculty-approved comprehensive review factors with no fixed weight on any factor. Every achievement, academic or nonacademic, is considered within the context of opportunities available to the applicant.
Merced	Fixed weight incorporating the faculty-approved comprehensive review factors considering both academic factors, weighted at 70%, and nonacademic factors, weighted at 30%.
Riverside	Fixed weight incorporating the faculty-approved comprehensive review criteria that are used to calculate an Academic Index Score.
San Diego	Holistic review incorporating the faculty-approved comprehensive review factors with no fixed weight on any factor. Every achievement, academic or non-academic, is considered within the context of opportunities available to the applicant.
Santa Barbara	Holistic review incorporating the faculty-approved comprehensive review factors. Every achievement, academic or non-academic, is considered within the context of the opportunities available to the applicant.
Santa Cruz	Holistic review. Achievements, academic or nonacademic, are considered within the context of opportunities available to the applicant.

^{* &}quot;Holistic" means that no single factor carries a specific weight consistently across all applications in the admission review; instead, the review incorporates an individual's circumstances, educational context and what each individual has presented on the application. "Fixed weight" means that various factors are weighted (e.g., could be 50/50, 75/25, etc.) in the admission review and the weighting is consistent across all applications.

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Some UC majors require an audition or submission of a portfolio or other supplemental materials. Explore all UC majors with our online search tool.

BERKELEY

Select first-year applicants will have an opportunity to submit two letters of recommendation. One letter must be written by a teacher or instructor. Applicants will identify letter writers as part of the application process. Letters are due by 11:59 p.m. on Jan. 9, 2026, and must be submitted electronically. After this date, it is not guaranteed that a letter can be read as part of the application review.

HAAS SCHOOL OF BUSINESS

Students must submit a supplemental application, including a self-reported academic record, additional essay questions and résumé. Applicants will receive emailed instructions from the Office of Undergraduate Admissions five to seven days after submission of the UC application. See the Haas undergraduate admissions website for details.

DAVIS

COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURAL AND ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCES

Landscape Architecture

Students who wish to major in Landscape Architecture must apply to the Pre-Landscape Architecture major. After students have enrolled at UC Davis they will be required to submit a separate major application to the department during their sophomore year to be considered for formal acceptance to the Landscape Architecture major. Contact the Landscape Architecture Advising Office at (530) 754-8628 or see the the Department of Human Ecology application process for details about the portfolio application and other information.
