Positive Discipline

What is Positive Discipline?

From <https://www.positivediscipline.com/about-positive-discipline>

Positive Discipline is a program developed by Dr. Jane Nelsen. It is based on the work of Alfred Adler and Rudolf Dreikurs and designed to teach young people to become responsible, respectful and resourceful members of their communities. Positive Discipline teaches important social and life skills in a manner that is deeply respectful and encouraging for both children and adults (including parents, teachers, childcare providers, youth workers, and others).

Recent research tells us that children are hardwired from birth to connect with others, and that children who feel a sense of connection to their community, family, and school are less likely to misbehave. To be successful, contributing members of their community, children must learn necessary social and life skills.

Who is on the site-wide Positive Discipline Team (PD)?

The PD team is representative of the entire facility staff across units, departments, General and Special Education staff, etc. Having a representative team will improve communication and feedback about PD programs in the facility and should also improve involvement and buy-in throughout the facility. The current PD team consists of the following members:

Facilitator/Team Leader: Michelle	Back up:
Minutes Taker: Stacy	Back up: Leslie
Data Analyst: Leslie	Back up: Michelle
Administrator: Michelle	Back up: Stephanie
Active Team Members: Michelle, Leslie, Stacy, Jamie, Stephanie, Elia

What are the responsibilities of the School-wide Positive Discipline team?

- Hold PD meetings on-site once per month to plan and coordinate school-wide and facility-wide behavior systems. The team is responsible for planning PD activities and programs (such as PD Kick-Off, acknowledgment assemblies, and booster lessons of school rules) and continually monitoring and updating PD programs.
- Attending meetings and trainings to promote the continuing development and maintenance of PD programs at your school.
- Present PD news at staff meetings to keep staff up to date with school PD programs and receive input and feedback from staff.
- The PD Team Leader is responsible for scheduling and planning-based on SWIS data- monthly PD meetings.

The following pages describe the School-wide PD plans and programs for this year. It is expected that all school staff will be active participants in the school-wide programming, including General Education and Special Education staff, Certified and Classified staff, even volunteers and substitute teachers.

School-Wide Rule:

Sherwood Wolves Use Grace and Courtesy

Why do we have a School-wide Rule?

Having a one simple, positively stated rule facilitates the teaching of behavioral expectations across school settings because students will be learning through the same language. By focusing on one simple rule it is easier for students to remember. It is also important for staff because instruction focusing on one simple rule will improve teaching and consistency across staff through the use of a common language.

Positively stated rules are important, because research has shown that recognizing students for following the rules is even more important than catching them breaking the rules. By stating rules positively, the hope is that staff will be more likely to use the rules to catch students engaging in the appropriate behavior.

By selecting only one rule it is important that the rule is broad enough to talk about all potential problem behaviors. With the rule selected, the PD team believes that we can then teach all specific behavioral expectations across all school settings. According to our simple rule, for example:

- Cleaning up your spills in the cafeteria is an example of Grace and Courtesy because someone could slip on the spill and get hurt.
- You were Using Grace and Courtesy when you asked your classmate to walk in a straight line in the hallway.
- Thank you, class, for Using Grace and Courtesy by raising your hands to speak and listening to what everyone else had to say about the story.

The Behavioral Expectations Grid (see the following pages) uses the school-wide rule to identify specific behavioral expectations across all school settings.

School Rules Posters

School Rules Posters will be disseminated and should be posted in every room in the school, including all classrooms, the cafeteria, hallways, front office, etc. This will help to prompt staff and students to pay attention to the school rules. School Rules Posters should be big enough to read and highly visible throughout all settings in the school.

 Cafeteria	Grace and Courtesy
	Order in the environment	Coordination in your body	Concentration in your mind	Independence on your own
	● Eat your own food ● Remain seated and wait to be excused ● Raise hands to be excused	● Sit with your feet on the floor ● Walk	● Respond quickly to quiet signal ● Use soft table voices ● Use respectful manners	● Clean your area ● Recycle

The poster above, designed for the Cafeteria, is an example of one of our School Rules Posters. Each poster will focus on one area with specific expectations displayed that describes how Sherwood Wolves use Grace and Courtesy for that area of the campus.

Teaching School-wide Rules, Behavioral Expectations, & Routines

Starting the Year off Right

During the first week of school, we will focus on teaching the school-wide rule, behavioral expectations, and routines to all students across all settings in the school. To truly start the year off right we will need participation and support from the entire staff.

Why teach the Rules, Expectations, and Routines during the first week of school?

One of the major reasons to teach behavioral expectations and routines across settings is for all staff agree on what is expected. This will improve consistency in enforcing the school rules. Surprisingly often, staff have different expectations about what behavior is acceptable in different settings which can confuse the students.

A second major reason is that we cannot assume that students know the expectations and routines.

What are Routines?

Routines are the procedures and processes that students are expected to follow to keep things running smoothly and prevent problems. Examples of routines include: entering the cafeteria, the lunch line process, the dismissal process for classes from lunch, process for sharpening your pencil in class, etc. Choosing routines should be a thoughtful process, since some routines can inadvertently set up students to engage in misbehavior. Routines should be taught and reinforced during the first week of school so that everyone in the school is following the same set of procedures.

Booster Sessions: Re-teaching the Rules, Expectations, and Routines.

Like all good teachers, we must remember that we cannot simply teach the expectations and routines once. It is important to hold booster sessions to review the expectations. Booster sessions are especially helpful after returning from a long break, during times in the year when you anticipate having more troubles, or in areas that continue to be problematic. Booster sessions may include re-teaching expectations, increasing the amount of energized specific praise, or having a contest between classes to award the class that does the best with the identified expectations or in the specified area.

The following pages provide tools staff can use to guide the teaching of behavioral expectations according to the School-wide Rules, including:

- Sample Lesson Plan: bathroom

EXPECTATIONS & PROCEDURES

LESSON PLAN

SETTING: Bathroom

Step 1: Review School Wide Rules

Order, Coordination, Concentration and Independence with Grace and Courtesy

Step 2: Teach Expectations for Specific Settings:

ORDER	COORDINATION	CONCENTRATION	INDEPENDENCE
- Keep water in the sink - One person per stall - Put paper towels in the garbage - Flush the toilet	- Walk - Safely use the ramp	- Wash your hands thoroughly with soap - Report any problems to an adult - Give people privacy	- Be prompt and return directly to your classroom - Keep your shoes on when outside the classroom

Step 3: Tell Why Rules Are Important

Expected behaviors help everyone feel comfortable.

Step 4: Demonstrate Rules

EXAMPLES	NON-EXAMPLES
Order - Keep water in sink - One person per stall - Use careful aim (boys' restroom) - Throw paper towels in garbage - Use 1-2 paper towels ONLY - Pick-up any towels on the ground - Flush the toilet or urinal	- Splashing water - Crawling under stalls - Locking stall door - Towels all over the floor - Toilet that needs to be flushed - Grabbing a lot of paper towels
Coordination - Walking feet, facing forward - Walk up and down ramp	- Running on the ramp - Swinging on the rails
Concentration - Wash your hands thoroughly with soap - Report any problems to an adult: overflowing toilet, graffiti, empty or	- Not washing your hands or using just water - Not reporting mess or broken bathroom equipment (toilet, door, soap dispenser, paper towel dispenser, etc.) - Crawling under stalls

broken soap dispenser, toilet paper, or paper towel dispenser, body fluid • Give people privacy: no crawling under, no peeking in the stalls • Using the correct bathroom	• Peeking in the stalls • Using and looking in the wrong bathroom
Independence • Be prompt and return directly to your classroom • Keep your shoes on when outside the classroom	• Playing/socializing on the way to bathroom, in the bathroom, and returning back to classroom • Barefoot/socks/etc.

Step 5: Provide Opportunities to Practice

- Correct usage of bathroom
 - flushing
 - washing hands thoroughly with soap
 - throwing paper towels in trash
 - one person per stall

Practice walking up and down the ramp

Practice reporting a problem

Step 6: Reinforce in Classrooms

Practice washing hands and throwing away paper towels in classroom at snack or before lunch.

Positive Discipline and Nurtured Heart Approach

Why do we want to recognize expected behavior?

It is not enough just to teach expected behavior, we also need to regularly recognize and give specific praise students for engaging in appropriate behavior. Research has shown that recognizing students for engaging in expected behavior is even more important than catching students breaking the rules. In fact, research on effective teaching has found that teachers should engage in a rate of 4 positive interactions with students to every 1 negative interaction (4:1 ratio). As staff it is very easy to get caught up focusing on catching students engaging in negative behavior. The goal of an acknowledgment system is to increase the number of positive interactions that all school staff have with students. In the Nurtured Heart Approach, this is related to the stand: “Absolute YES to positivity.”

Consistent and fair discipline procedures are crucial to successfully responding to behavior in all schools. It is important that we are respectful of students in our disciplinary responses. Responses should focus on teaching, remediation, or problem solving as much as possible. Restorative actions may be in order to give the student a chance to make up for the misstep made. Restorative actions should be: Respectful, Helpful, Related, and Reasonable. In responding to behavior we also want to be mindful of the instructional time students are missing with the goal of minimizing the amount of instructional time missed. In the Nurtured Heart Approach this is related to the stand: “Absolute NO to negativity.” Once the child has reset their behavior, we energize them and proceed with restorative actions if needed.

In order to maximize student instructional time staff are encouraged to deal with problem behavior in their classroom as much as possible. This requires that staff develop a clear discipline plan, including teaching expectations and routines, incentives for positive behavior that are not extrinsic, and clear classroom responses to problem behavior for their classroom.

If teachers are experiencing pervasive behavior in their classroom, they are advised to seek assistance or additional consultation first by partnering with parents. Remember to share what you love about their child before you request to work together for the success of the child. Parents know their children best and are the most effective allies in encouraging kids to make good choices.

It is essential that staff and administration agree on the following:

- What problem behaviors should be sent to the office?
- What problem behaviors are expected to be dealt with in the classroom?
- What is the sequence of disciplinary responses in the school, or what alternatives are there?
- What are the procedures for a Major Behavior Support Referral?

The following pages contain materials outlining the consequence system at our school:

- Minor Behavior Referral
- Major Behavior Referral
- Office versus Staff Managed Behavior Definitions
- Discipline Levels

Behavior Data

Minor and Major Behavior Referrals in SWIS provide access to data across the school and for individual students. The PD team will look at discipline data on a monthly basis to make decisions about School-wide programming and individual students in need of additional support.

Both Minor and Major Behavior Referrals are reviewed by the school director as they are entered into the system.

It is important that parents and students understand that behavior reports are NOT meant to label children as “problems” or “bad”. They ARE meant to collect meaningful data that the adults who care about the child’s success can consider when planning how best to support the child.

For this important shift in perception to take place, NO STAFF MEMBER SHOULD BE USING THE BEHAVIOR DATA SYSTEM AS A THREAT. All students should be taught the expectations, and it should be expected that these lessons will need to be retaught. Along with the expectations, what happens when expectations are broken should be explained. Students should understand that their choice to break a rule/not meet an expectation will result in a natural or logical consequence.

How We Respond When Expectations Are Not Met

First, we consider:

Behaviorism asks, “What is the problem? What is the punishment?”

Positive Discipline asks “What is the problem? What is the solution?”

We also consider responses within the frame of the Positive Discipline/Montessori philosophy:

1. Kind and firm
2. Helping children feel belonging and significance
3. Effective long-term
4. Teaching social and life skills
5. Inviting children to discover that they are capable

We use Logical Consequences:

- True Logical Consequences are Reasonable, Related, Respectful, Helpful
- Two clear situations:
 1. You broke it you fix it; You made the mess you clean it up
 2. Privilege comes with responsibility. If you don't want the responsibility, you may lose the privilege until you are ready to exhibit the responsibility.

We find solutions in 4 Steps:

1. At a neutral time
2. With a frank discussion to generate solutions
3. We choose a solution and make an agreement
4. We remind about agreement if needed

We do not prevent Natural Consequences (with safety in mind, of course)

Natural consequences might include:

- Being cold, wet, or hot when not dressed appropriately for the weather
- Being hungry or thirsty when not eating or drinking
- Peers will be afraid of you or upset by you and you won't make a friendship
- You will break something you are not handling with care

Logical consequences might include:

- Losing a privilege
- Cleaning up a mess
- Making a sincere apology
- Giving time in service in exchange for time taken
- Missing out on a preferred activity to complete an avoided activity (PE and/or recess will not be lost as a consequence, but alternate PE or recess time may be necessary)

Students should be told that they have earned a minor behavior report or a major behavior support referral in a matter-of-fact tone without an energetic charge. They should understand that a minor report is to make sure a bad habit is not forming, and if it is, after repeated minor reports, that means the adults in the child's life need to partner to support the child to make better choices. The behavior support referral will have data that the adults will consider when deciding what logical consequence could be helpful in repairing damage and encouraging good choices.

MTSS Tier 2 SST (Student Success Team) For Students

The SST will be a source of expertise whenever a student is not achieving up to her or his potential behavior. The SST, including the student's teacher, and the student's parent/s or guardian will develop a specific plan so the student can succeed.

Who should be referred to the SST?

Students that are not progressing with Tier I supports (supports put in place for all students) and need additional interventions will be referred to the SST. Data from classroom and playground reports and/or office referrals showing a need for intervention will be referred to the SST. If a student has more than 2 referrals, they have entered the second tier of support. More than 5 referrals indicate that a student needs behavior support from the third tier of the Multi-Tiered System of Support.
