In this course students will use VEX Robotics kits to learn about how machines work, from mechanical systems to automation.

Students will build a variety of mechanisms, explore the effects of automation and robotics on society, and practice coding languages. Coding languages will be used when students program robots they build to perform various tasks.

VEX Robotics

We will be using VEX IQ (2nd generation) Robotics kits in this class. For more information about VEX materials and curriculum, please visit vexrobotics.com.
