As Suicide Prevention Awareness Month comes to an end, we want everyone at GHS to remember that asking for help is a sign of strength.

There may be times when things feel overwhelming or like they're not going to get better. But feelings and circumstances can change, especially when we let other people help us carry them.

Talk to someone you trust—a friend, family member, teacher, counselor, coach, or another trusted adult.

You matter. Your story matters. And you don't have to face hard things alone.
